SECTION I: PROGRAM INFORMATION

Teachers Prepared

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Key terms in this section are listed below. Click on the link to view the definition(s) in the glossary.

Academic Major

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

- >> Teachers Prepared by Subject Area
- >> Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Teachers Prepared by Subject Area

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2023-24.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. (§205(b)(1)(H))

What are CIP Codes?

No teachers prepared in academic year 2023-24

If your program has no teachers prepared, check the box above and leave the table below blank (or clear responses already entered).

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2023-24. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. (§205(b)(1)(H))

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education—Chemistry" category.

What are CIP Codes?

Assessment Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. (§205(a)(1)(B))

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

Summary Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. (§205(a)(1)(B))

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.
 - 1.The Indiana Wesleyan teacher education program contains a technology thread that is included in each of the five domains of the Teacher as Decision Maker conceptual framework. As such, candidates' ability to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction is assessed multiple times prior to graduation. 2. School of Teacher Education program candidates are required to take a technology course related to their field of study. 3.The Teacher Work Sample (TWS) is an assessment completed by all candidates during the student-teaching semester. The TWS requires students to collect, analyze, and display pre-test and post-test data using appropriate technology to make instructional decisions. 4. ISTE aligned assessments were added to all traditional programs in 2022-2023.

Teacher Training

- 1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:
 - a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

All teacher candidates in the School of Teacher Education are required to take Psychology of the Exceptional Learner, a 3 credit course that explores the nature of individual learning needs, including the needs of children who differ in cognitive-academic, social-emotional, physical-sensory characteristics, special education and related services, and basic principles for integrating all people into educational and other environments. The course is taught by a faculty member licensed and experienced in Exceptional Needs Education. The Conceptual Framework of the School of Teacher Education includes 5 Domains, aligned to the InTASC Core Teacher standards. Domain I: Learners includes indicators unique to Individual Learning Needs. The following indicators are used as a foundation to guide curriculum, instruction, and assessment throughout the Teacher Education Program. -The candidate designs learning opportunities that reflect student differences in approaches to learning and appropriately challenge all learners. -The candidate identifies and implements appropriate modifications and accommodations to enable all students to reach their potential. -The candidate identifies and implements appropriate assistive technologies to meet individual learning needs. -The candidate articulates legal rights and needs of students as outlined in IEPs, Section 504 plans, and other documents. The candidate's teaching shows evidence of intentional promotion of students' rights and needs. -The candidate designs and implements developmentally appropriate and challenging learning experiences, making appropriate content accessible to all learners. Students are intentionally placed in field experiences where they work with students with disabilities. Practical application occurs in multiple settings throughout the program. During the semester-long Student Teaching experience, candidates are actively involved in all student-related case conferences, and responsible for planning and implementing instruction for students with disabilities. Key assessments used to evaluate teaching performance include criteria that address a candidate's ability to teach students with disabilities effectively. Supervisors take opportunity to provide feedback for growth throughout the program. For the online Early Childhood Education program, candidates take ECED-322 Early Childhood Special Education. This course provides students with a working knowledge of the history and legal precedence for providing early intervention (EI) and early childhood special education (ECSE) services, characteristics of young children with special needs and their families, experience with developmental assessments, creating accessible learning activities and environments for children with special needs, and effective instructional techniques for working with this unique population. Upon successful completion of the course, candidates will Explain the responsibilities of caring for, nurturing, and teaching of special needs early learners as a unique creation (Psalm 139:13-16). Identify the legal rights and responsibilities of parents, children, and educational entities in regard to special education. Apply knowledge of current federal, state, and local legislation related to servicing families and children (birth-age 8) with special needs. Workshops and assignments throughout this course prepare candidates to teach early childhood students with disabilities effectively. The online Minor in Elementary Education prepares candidates to teach students with disabilities in a variety of ways. The candidates learn how the brain reads coupled with important adaptations for the learning environment and ways to adapt assessments and lesson plans for those with dyslexia. They also describe how a digital storyboard could help a student with an exceptionality. Candidates also select a culturally responsive method and corresponding strategy with a rationale that meets the learning needs of students with exceptionalities. In addition, they research the definition, prevalence, factors, basic characteristics, teaching strategies, and assistive technology for the following IDEA disability categories: Specific learning disability (SLD), speech or language impairment (SLI), and intellectual disability (ID), traumatic brain injury (TBI), emotional disturbance (ED), and autism spectrum disorder (ASD), other health impairment (OHI), orthopedic impairment, and multiple disabilities.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

All teacher candidates in the School of Teacher Education are required to take Psychology of the Exceptional Learner, a 3 credit course that explores the nature of individual learning needs, including the needs of children who differ in cognitive-academic, social-emotional, physical-sensory characteristics, special education and related services, and basic principles for integrating all people into educational and other environments. The course is taught by a faculty member licensed and experienced in Exceptional Needs Education. The Conceptual Framework of the School of Teacher Education includes 5 Domains, aligned to the InTASC Core Teacher standards. Program. -The candidate designs learning opportunities that reflect student differences in approaches to learning and appropriately challenge all learners. -The candidate identifies and implements appropriate modifications and accommodations to enable all students to reach their potential. -The candidate identifies and implements appropriate assistive technologies to meet individual learning needs. -The candidate articulates legal rights and needs of students as outlined in IEPs, Section 504 plans, and other documents. The candidate's teaching shows evidence of intentional promotion of students' rights and needs. -The candidate designs and implements developmentally appropriate and challenging learning experiences, making appropriate content accessible to all learners. During the semester-long Student Teaching experience, candidates are actively involved in all student-related case conferences, and responsible for planning and implementing instruction for students with disabilities. Key assessments used to evaluate teaching performance include criteria that address a candidate's ability to teach students with disabilities effectively. Supervisors take opportunity to provide feedback for growth throughout the program. For the online Early Childhood Education program candidates complete ECED-322. In ECED-322, candidates are introduced to IEPs and IFSPs in Workshop 1, Assignment 1.4. in Workshop2, Assignment 2.2, candidates identify the legal rights and responsibilities of parents, children, and educational entities in regards to special education. Our candidates are also prepared to apply knowledge of current federal, state, and local legislation related to servicing families and children (birth-age 8) with special needs. Candidates in the online Minor in Elementary Education learn to participate as a member of IEP teams in the following ways. First, they learn the legal process of identifying a disability and determine if a special education placement is fair to a student's learning needs based on a case study. Candidates also learn each stakeholder's role/responsibility and information each one gathers for meetings related to the IEP development process. They develop modifications and accommodations for hypothetical learners with diverse and different learning needs. In addition, candidates explain the purpose of the continuum of placements and standards for determining the least restrictive environment (LRE) for students with disabilities and how the school, school personnel, and students without disabilities are impacted by an LRE. Finally, candidates describe cultural or other barriers, causes of the barriers, and solutions to the barriers for caregiver participation in the IEP development process.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

All teacher candidates in the School of Teacher Education are required to take coursework that explores multicultural perspective. For Secondary Education majors and Exceptional Needs majors, Principles of Teaching, a 3 credit course is required. The course includes a related practical field experience in a multicultural setting. For Elementary Education majors, Education in a Pluralistic Society, a 3 credit course is required that emphasizes the implications of culturally responsive teaching within a multicultural classroom. Areas for examination include identity, race, ethnicity, culture, gender, language, parent involvement, and religion. A second course, ELL in the 21st Century Classroom, provides opportunity for the education major to develop and/or improve skills in working with English Language Learners in the general elementary classroom. Students learn the stages of culture shock, stages of second language acquisition, characteristics of academic English, and instructional practices that will enhance learning for English Learners in mathematics, social studies, science, and literacy. The Conceptual Framework of the School of Teacher Education includes 5 Domains, aligned to the InTASC Core Teacher standards. Domain I: Learners includes indicators unique to Culturally Responsive Teaching. The following indicators are used as a foundation to guide curriculum, instruction, and assessment throughout the Teacher Education Program. -The candidate analyzes and modifies curriculum to reflect and engage ethnic, cultural, linguistic, and socioeconomic diversity. -The candidate pursues opportunities to increase his or her understanding of students' ethnic, cultural, linguistic, and /or socioeconomic experience; instruction shows evidence of the candidate's professional development. -The candidate fosters relationships and collaborates with families and community stakeholders to created a culturally-responsive educational environment. Students are intentionally placed in multicultural field placements. Practical application occurs in multiple settings throughout the program. During the semester-long Student Teaching experience, candidates are responsible for planning and implementing instruction for multicultural students. Key assessments used to evaluate teaching performance include criteria that address a candidate's ability to teach students who are limited English proficient. Supervisors take opportunity to provide feedback for growth throughout the program. For the online Early Childhood Education program, candidates complete ECED-325. In ECED-325, Workshop 6, Assignment 6.3, candidates explore how to best meet needs and provide the highest quality instruction for students of diverse language abilities including: 1. Recent immigrants with little or no English. 2. Those who speak some English but come from homes where the primary language is something other than English. 3. Those who are fluent in both languages. 4. Those who speak primarily English but have poor skills in the family's language. 5. Children who speak nonstandard English due to dialects, etc. 6. Children who are monolingual in English. Our candidates must read the required texts and view a video about supporting English Language Learners, then they must choose 3 effective strategies (described in the readings) to help support and teach students who are limited English proficient. Candidates must explain why they chose those particular strategies and discuss the strategies with their peers and instructor. Our program adheres to the NAEYC Standards for Initial Early Childhood Professional Preparation, and therefore our candidates are grounded in a child development knowledge base. They use their understanding of young children's characteristics and needs, and of multiple interacting influences on children's development and learning as outlined in the Key elements of Standard 1 throughout our courses: 1a: Knowing and understanding young children's characteristics and needs, from birth through age 8. 1b: Knowing and understanding the multiple influences on early development and learning 1c: Using developmental knowledge to create healthy, respectful, supportive, and challenging learning environments for young children. This includes all children, those with learning exceptionalities and those with diverse language abilities. Candidates in the online Minor in Elementary Education learn how to effectively teach students with limited English proficiency in many different ways. They explain the definition and basic characteristics of students who are linguistically diverse along with research-based teaching strategies that would address an ELL student's weak early English language literacy skills. They create a literacy rich environment related to phonemic awareness, determine appropriate types of texts, and identify ways digital storyboards can be used as resources in the classroom to aid in learning experiences for students who are ELL. They document and describe digital assessment tools to meet the needs of a student who is an ELL. In addition, candidates select a culturally responsive method and corresponding strategy with a rationale that meets the learning needs of students who are English language learners.

2. Does your program prepare special education teachers?

Yes

If yes, provide a description of the activities that prepare special education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

All teacher candidates in the School of Teacher Education are required to take Psychology of the Exceptional Learner, a 3 credit course that explores the nature of individual learning needs, including the needs of children who differ in cognitive-academic, social-emotional, physical-sensory characteristics, special education and related services, and basic principles for integrating all people into educational and other environments. c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

All teacher candidates in the School of Teacher Education are required to take coursework that explores multicultural perspective. Exceptional Needs majors complete Principles of Teaching, a 3 credit course. The course includes a related practical field experience in a multicultural setting. Most Exceptional Needs majors double major in Elementary Education and take a second course, ELL in the 21st Century Classroom. The Conceptual Framework of the School of Teacher Education includes 5 Domains, aligned to the InTASC Core Teacher standards. Domain I: Learners includes indicators unique to Culturally Responsive Teaching. The following indicators are used as a foundation to guide curriculum, instruction, and assessment throughout the Teacher Education Program. -The candidate analyzes and modifies curriculum to reflect and engage ethnic, cultural, linguistic, and socioeconomic diversity. -The candidate pursues opportunities to increase his or her understanding of students' ethnic, cultural, linguistic, and /or socioeconomic experience; instruction shows evidence of the candidate's professional development. -The candidate fosters relationships and collaborates with families and community stakeholders to created a culturally-responsive educational environment.
